ELECTION OFFICIAL INJURED. Much Mystery About Mr. Wash-

burn's Bad Bruises.

RICHUBLIC SPECIAL. Kansas City, Mo., Peb. 25.-C. E. Wash-burn, Election Commissioner, is lying in burn, Efection Commissioner, is lying in bed at his home, No. 55 West Tenth street, with a badiy-bruised face. His nose is split throughout its length, his right eye blackened and his lip cut. There is some mystery about the mishap to Mr. Washburn which he alone can solve. He told his wife last night that his nightes were caused by a fall on the sidewalk.

He was brought home between 8 and 9 o'clock in a carriage. It is not known who the driver was or where Mr. Washburn was found. He seems to be dazed, and many of his friends claim he was slugged by a political enemy. Detectives are working on the case, but it is not expected the mystery will be cleared up until the physicians allow Mr. Washburn to be interviewed.

of promoting a mammoth olde line project, brothers in the family—Alba and Dewey the object of which will be to furnish oil from the Texas fields as feel to points along the M'asissippi River and its navigable tributaries. The principal center of supply for the proposed system is to be Morgan City, a town in Southern Louisiana on the Gulf Coast.

To Morgan City a network of pipe lines will convey the oil from the Texas gushers. Enormous reservoirs will be constructed at Morgan City for storing the off, previous to its shipment in tank barges up the Mississippi River. These barges, which are to be of great capacity, will be towed out through the jettles at the mouth of the river.

At the main distribution points along the Mississippi River reservoirs are to be constructed. These will be filled from the barges and piped therefrom directly to the consumers. The soheme includes the establishment of a vast fleet of barges, which in construction will be similar to the ones now used in transporting grain up and down the Mississippi. Mississippi.
